BACCARAT SCANDAL.

Clergy Denounce the Prince.

CLOSE SEASON CONSIDERED.

England's Population is Increasing.

Victims of the Disaster in Switzerland.

Baccarat Scandal.

LONDON, June 16.—The popular crusade against the Prince of Wales shows no signs of abating in strength and bitterness. At seven different religious meetings held at various parts of the country yesterday the Prince of Wales was roundly denounced for the share he took in the baccarat scandal.

The newspapers still keep up their attacks on the Prince. As evidence of the attitude of the press and public in the question of royal prerogatives a letter, which is published in to-day's issue of the Standard (Conservative organ), may be cited. The writer of the letter calls attention to the fact that during the course of the Royal picnic at Virginia Water on Saturday last some members of the family of the Prince of Wales, violated the law relative to the close season by fishing in those waters. The writer calls upon the local authorities to prosecute the law-breakers under the statute and not to exempt from punishment members of the Royal family who violated the law. The fact that this letter is published by the Standard goes far to show the feeling at the actions of the Prince of Wales.

London News.

LONDON, June 16.—The census of England and Wales shows a population of 29,000,000, an increase of 3,000,000 in the last decade.

In response to the protests of foreign diplomatic representatives at Peking, the Emperor of China has ordered the Chinese authorities to protect all foreigners and to punish the natives who took part in the recent riots.

The British Consul at Odessa, in a dispatch to Lord Salisbury denying the truth of the reports of the exodus of Russian Jews to England, said the bulk of the emigrants go to Constantinople.

LONDON, June 16.—The idea of an autumn session is abandoned. Parliament will re-assemble in January. The Primitive Methodist Conference, in session at Northampton, passed a resolution censuring the Prince of Wales for his connection with the baccarat scandal.

A host of natives belonging to the Toureg tribe in North Africa were compelled to leave the Sahara regions on account of the ravages of locusts, which threaten to raid Tunis.

Portland's Election.

PORTLAND, June 16.—At yesterday's municipal election 12,312 votes were cast. The count is not completed, but the votes so far counted assure the election of the entire citizens' or municipal ticket by majorities ranging from one to three thousand.

Chipman Rejected.

CHICO (Cal.), June 16.—The appointment of General Chipman to be the head of the Bureau of Horticulture was rejected by the World's Fair Directors last night. It is stated Wm. Forester of Fresno, one of the national commissioners, has been selected for the place.

The Close Season.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The Bering Sea question was further considered at to-day's Cabinet meeting with a view of taking such additional steps as may be deemed necessary to enforce a strict compliance with the terms of the agreement for a closed season.

The Basle Disaster.

BASEL, June 16.—Among the first-class passengers killed here were Dubeck, director of the Jura and Simplon railroad; Dr. Vogel of Basle, and family; Professor Dubeck and other well-known persons of Basle.

To-day's Races.

SHEEPSHEAD BAY, June 16.—Long before noon to-day coaches and carriages by the dozen began to come through the gates and take up good positions in the field. With the thermometer well on its way to 100 in the city, this beautiful race track was never more appreciated. A good, stiff breeze blew from over the bay and made the intense heat at least tolerable. At one o'clock the best positions in stand and field were occupied, and the Club House crowded with excited horsemen. The suburban handicap was the second big racing event of the year. Tenny was the most pronounced favorite. It is said Tenny will go to the post, carrying off $100,000 for the general public. His owner, Mr. Pulsifer, is confident of victory, but many experts are waiting to see who will have the mount. If it is Murphy, it will mean the horse is to be ridden to win. Teatray is, in the opinion of many knowing ones, inside of the betting ring, Tenny's most dangerous opponent. He is to carry ten pounds less than the favorite. Riley and Judge Morrow are thought to be overweighed and Raceland is hardly in good form yet. The track is in splendid condition and everything favorable for a great race and fast time.

By 2 o'clock fully 27,000 people were on the grounds. In the first race, sweepstakes for all ages, five furlongs, Civil Service won, Eon second and Correction third. Time, 1:08.

Three-year-olds, one mile and three-sixteenths—Portchester won, Hoodlum second and Tammany third. Time, 2:03 1-5.

Loantaka won the suburban, Major Domo second and Cassius third, Tenny finishing sixth. Time, 2:07.

Printers' Demands.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Much interest is manifested in regard to the recent action of the Secretary of the Treasury in the matter of charges against the chief of the bureau of engraving for discharging seven plate printers, made by members of the Executive Committee of the Knights of Labor. Investigation by Secretary Foster showed the men were dropped from the rolls by his predecessor. He is of the opinion it would be unfair and unwise to reinstate discharged men to their old places and thus displace men holding them. He, however, promised in view of the fact that within the next six weeks a large number of printers will be required; the men, within that time, should be given presses. The proposition was rejected by the Knights of Labor representatives who ask that the men be given their old places.

A Cloudburst.

KNOXVILLE (Tenn.), June 16.—At Neumanville, Green county, Saturday, a cloudburst did great damage. The place is remote from the railroad and telegraph. The fall of water was terrific. The storehouse, residence and out-buildings of T. A. King were swept away. The postoffice was kept in his store and everything was lost. A number of other houses were carried away and all the crops along the creek bottom lands are destroyed. Considerable stock was drowned, but no lives lost. The property damaged will amount to a large sum.

Restless Chippewas.

ST. PAUL, June 16.—J. B. Parker, an Indian storekeeper on the outskirts of the Fond Du Lac Chippewa Reservation, is in St. Paul to-day. He looks on an outbreak as a serious matter. The hostiles, he says, will have to be dealt with by the government. They have been carrying rifles for a month. The dam had overflowed much land, hurting the hay and other crops. By the letting out of the water eight million feet of logs are left high and dry. The Indians threaten to shoot any one who tries to repair the dam.

Fruit Sales.

CHICAGO, June 16.—The Earl Fruit Co. sold at auction to-day one car of California cherries at 65 cents and $1 10. The entire car arrived in very bad condition, the fruit being over ripe, soft and some boxes leaking.

Free for Alcohol.

PARIS, June 16.—The Chamber of Deputies voted an approval of a duty of three francs on maize, with a provision for a temporary admission of grain if it is to be used in the manufacture of alcohol for export.

High Prices.

BERLIN, June 16.—The high prices of cereals is being maintained on account of the bad weather in the grain growing districts, especially in the Harz Mountains and Tyrol, where snow recently fell.

Weather Report.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 16.—Forecast, fair weather.

OHIO REPUBLICANS.

Convention in Columbus To-day.

THE CAMPAIGN FOR MCKINLEY.

Reception to the Republican Leader.

McKinley Will Be Governor of Ohio.

McKinley for Governor

COLUMBUS (O.), June 16.—The most critical campaign in the history of Ohio politics opened to-day when the gavel fell on one of the most enthusiastic Republican State conventions the buckeye commonwealth has ever known. The importance of the result of this campaign, not only to the State, but to the nation, is fully realized, and all devices known to modern politics will be exerted by both parties to win a favorable verdict from the people in November next.

It was arranged early this morning before the convention came to order there should be no disputes over the organization. General Asa S. Bushnell of Springfield was unanimously decided upon as permanent Chairman. The Grand Opera House, which has been the scene of stirring political conventions for years, was beautifully decorated with flags and bunting, the national colors being conspicuous everywhere upon the stage, and a large picture was suspended over the Chairman's place.

It was arranged the convention should occupy two days. This forenoon was devoted to the meeting of the various congressional delegations and the selection of a new State Central Committee and Committees on Credentials, Resolutions and Organization. At 2 p. m. the convention was to meet, but it is understood little will be done beyond the selection of temporary officers and listening to the address of the temporary Chairman, Robert Nevin. After that it is the understanding that the convention will be adjourned until to-morrow morning, when the permanent organization will be completed and nominations made.

The chief event this evening will be a reception to McKinley by the Lincoln League. The nomination of William McKinley, ex-Congressman and author of the tariff law, for the office of Governor has been a foregone conclusion and made the convention, which opened with so much enthusiasm and good feeling to-day, rather a love feast than a contentious political gathering. McKinley arrived about noon and although the temperature was way up in the nineties, thousands of men turned out and marched to the station to greet him. McKinley was escorted to a carriage and the march to the Neil House began. Along the entire distance of nearly a mile the side walks were literally packed with people. On reaching the hotel McKinley retired to the parlor, where he was joined by Sherman, Forsaker and others.

It was after 2 o'clock before the delegates began to gather. At exactly 2:45 p. m. L. M. King, Chairman of the State Central Committee, called the convention to order. He paid a tribute to William McKinley, which was loudly applauded. Colonel Nevin was then introduced as temporary Chairman.

The welcome which Robert M. Nevin received from 2,000 cheering Ohioans gave evidence that the State Central Committee had made no mistake in the selection of a temporary Chairman. "This convention," said the Chairman "will make history in this great commonwealth. It is a distinguished honor to be a delegate to this convention; it is an honor to be a member of the Republican party and as such to be entitled to a share of its glory and its achievements, (applause) with regard to all great measures it has ever advocated. Our party stands to-day where it fit always stood, with nothing to regret, to explain, or to apologize for; it stands upon its old platform, true in its allegiance to every principle it has ever enunciated.

Continuing, the speaker arraigned the Democratic State administration and legislature for its record in the past two years, and besides the denouncing of the gerrymander of State, made repeated attacks at Governor Campbell and his official acts.

After endorsing President Harrison and speaker Reed, he said: "But not to these alone is all the glory. There stood upon the floor of the House of Representatives, Chairman of its Ways and Means Committee, another man whose services need mention; his name linked with that act that is bringing to-day, and as years go by, will bring in greater measure, prosperity to American people; a man who having led upon the floor of that house, to the support of every important measure, an unbroken column of Republicans, to be chosen by acclamation to-morrow to lead the Republican hosts of Ohio to victory this fall, is William McKinley, Jr."

This was received with great enthusiasm.

Continuing, the speaker said: "I need say nothing about our candidate for Governor; he is already chosen. If the Democrats were in accord and harmonious, if they stood foot to foot and shoulder to shoulder in the fight this fall, still, with William McKinley Jr. as our leader and united as we are, they must go down; but, disorganized and broken with the Campbell faction and the Neil faction and the 'dark horse' faction, the question is not, will McKinley be elected, but how much will be his majority."

Canada Fire.

OTTAWA, June 16.—Passengers on the Canadian Atlantic train which passed through Casselman last night report the town burning up. They say great piles of lumber and stacks of tanbark with nearly every house and store in the village were on fire. Men, women and children were frantically rushing towards the woods with what little they could carry. There is no possibility now of ascertaining whether there was loss of life, but the destruction of property must have been enormous. The population of the town is about 1,000.

Cable Road Sued.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 16.—Hanson R. Taylor claims that on the 5th inst. he was rudely thrown to the ground by the sudden starting of a Market street cable car. His right shoulder was badly dislocated and his body greatly bruised. His injuries will interfere with his duties as an officer of the United States Navy, and he sues to recover $10,000 from the Market Street Cable Railway Company.

Chicago Strikers.

CHICAGO, June 16.—Several hundred men were added to the ranks of the ornamental iron work strikers this morning by going out with an additional number of moulders and some of the blacksmiths. One of the bosses has yielded to the strikers' demands and several others are expected to do so within a few days.

The new United States Court of appeals for the district organized to-day.

No Pears Felt.

NEW YORK, June 16.—Agents of the Canard Steamship Co. scout the idea that anything has happened to the steamer Etruria, which is reported either burned or sunk by a collision with an iceberg.

Grain Market.

"THE LIMITED MAIL."

Reno to Have a Theatrical Treat To-morrow Night.

This most excellent company will stop "The Limited Express" here to-morrow night and give the citizens of Reno a chance to see the best play on the American stage. It is full of highly interesting and sensational situations throughout and moved in a manner that has gained for it great praise. It is so seldom that Reno has a chance to witness so fine a production that the house is sure to be crowded. Seats can be secured at Hodgkinson's drug store, and all who intend going should secure them at once.

SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.

The Exercises of the Junior Department.

Yesterday afternoon the exercises of the Junior Department were held in the school-room at the Seminary. The oral examination in the rudimentary principles of harmony by the Department of Music proved of much interest, especially to the musical portion of the listeners. Miss McElroy's history class gave a recitation illustrating their method of learning dates. This is very ingenious and must help materially in fixing important dates in the pupils' minds.

A RUNAWAY.

Mrs. J. W. Parker, Her Little Son and Mrs. Snow Have a Narrow Escape.

Last evening at 7:30 o'clock, as Mrs. J. W. Parker, Mrs. Snow and a little son of Mrs. Parker were out for a ride, with the little fellow driving, the horse became frightened at a bicycle near the Phoenix Hotel and shied, throwing Mrs. Parker and the little lad out of the cart; when the animal started to run. Mrs. Snow was thrown partly out, but catching hold of one of the shafts she held on, while the horse continued in his mad flight up Plaza street to the Sierra street railroad crossing, when he was captured by Wm. Webster, Jr. Mrs. Snow was rescued from her perilous position apparently uninjured, but it was discovered subsequently that she had broken her arm just above the wrist. Dr. Phillips was called and reduced the fracture, and the lady is as comfortable to-day as could be expected. Mrs. Parker escaped without serious injury, and the boy also, although he was badly bruised about the head.

Painfully Injured.

Wm. McGinnis, a miner employed in the C. & C. at Virginia City, on Sunday morning fell a distance of 28 feet in one of the stopes, four floors above the 1,700 level. No bones were broken, but he suffered painful injuries. It is thought he will recover.

5 O'CLOCK EDITION

THE voters of this State should begin to think for themselves. At every election held heretofore the tickets of both the great parties have been made up by half a dozen men in San Francisco, who have come up here and whipped the rank and file into line without much trouble. The GAZETTE would suggest that the people of this State run one campaign in their own interest and not pander to the likes and dislikes of a baker's dozen who have no interest in the State or the people further than to boost them into some fat office. If the scheming politicians were shelved one year perhaps it would learn them a lesson. At all events the voters would show an independence of character that would be refreshing, and at the same time show other States that we had an eye open to the rights and privileges of American citizens. We will soon be called upon to elect delegates to the National Conventions to nominate Presidential candidates, and it won't be a very great while before another Congressman and a United States Senator are to be chosen, so let us canvass the field most thoroughly for men who are identified with Nevada and her best interests and show to the world that we can run our own campaign without any of California's help. We have tried the old way of doing things quite long enough.

BERLIN advises that German trade in Samoa is falling off and that the government would gladly avail itself of any pretext for drawing out of Samoa altogether. Recent advices from the islands mentioned German intrigues for restoring the influence formerly exercised in Samoan affairs. It is difficult to separate public and private German interests in Samoa, owing to the way in which they have been interwoven in the conduct of business affairs. It would have been more to the credit of the German Government if it had extended less support to private speculators in Samoa. Bismarck, during the recent imbroglio, continually disavowed the action of his representative in the island, but somehow what the representative said generally went there and made pretty much all the trouble that occurred.

SIR WILLIAM GORDAN CUMMING proposes to get out a book giving his version to the Tranby Croft scandal, together with a great deal of interesting matter more or less germane thereto. It might be made as interesting as the famous confessions of Jonathan Green, the reformed gambler. He taught all about how gamblers cheat at poker, faro, etc., but he knew nothing about baccarat. Cumming can supply his omission and at the same time gain more money at book making than by baccarat. His book might have a bigger run than "Grant's Memoirs" or "Robert Elsmere."

SHOULD the Prince of Wales be made correspondent in another divorce case public opinion in Europe is in the mood to have the matter fully exposed, instead of allowing it to be hushed up, as in the Mordaunt case. Another scandal following on the heels of the Tranby Croft affair might have incalculable effect.

"MR. BARNES OF NEW YORK,"
An Excellent Play Presented by a Strong Company.

The people of Reno enjoyed a dramatic treat last night that stopped while on the fly across the continent, and hence could not take in the entire Nevada circuit. "Mr. Barnes of New York," the production of Archibald Gunter, and the latest sensational play, was presented by the original company that produced it in New York, with the exception of two players, May Wheeler and James Neill, who are both finished and accomplished and possessed of more than mediocre talent. The play proved highly entertaining and drew an audience of the most appreciative kind. Manager Piper is to be congratulated upon presenting the people of Reno with a real dramatic treat.

A GENERAL'S TOILET.

The Great Pains Taken with His Personal Appearance.

It was just after one of those famous battles in Bulgaria that several war correspondents, the writer among others, sought an interview with Gen. Skobelev, says the New York World. Approaching the general's quarters, we were accosted by a guard. "Who are you?" "MacGahan, correspondent." That was all; and we passed into the inclosure. It was a picturesque scene, lighted up by the glow of camp-fires, around which about a couple of hundred Cossack soldiers rested in picturesque confusion. We made our way up to a round canvas tent. An orderly asked us our business. "Tell the general I am MacGahan," and a hearty response came out of the tent in good English: "Come in. Is that you, Mac? Ah! and Jackson." We entered. It was a strange sight that met our eyes. Clad only in a striped-silk shirt and trousers, Skobelev sat at a little camp table, on which stood a small mirror, before which was an array of combs and brushes and toilet requisites. And what do you think the most famous of Russian generals was doing? Carefully polishing his finger nails with an ivory-handled nail brush, his valet-orderly standing at attention beside him and brushing his uniform. The battle had only ceased an hour before, yet Skobelev had already taken a bath, had washed off the stains of battle, and with hair carefully combed and beard brushed to a fashionable nicety, as if he were preparing to attend a ball or a banquet, he was deeply interested in completing the minor details of his toilet. It seemed impossible to imagine that the handsome fellow before us, spruce and clean as if he had never smelled powder for a month, was the famous general whose dashing heroism was the admiration of the world. But as soon as he began to speak there was no mistaking who it was.

WONDERS IN MINIATURE.

Six Pairs of Scissors That Could Be Hidden Under the Wing of a Fly.

At a shop in London in 1745, says the St. Louis Republic, was exhibited a common Barcelona nut-shell holding a tea table, tea board, a dozen cups and saucers, with sugar dish, bottle, funnel, fifteen drinking glasses, five punch bowls, ten rummels, a pestle and mortar and two sets of ninepins—all of polished ivory, exquisitely fashioned and, according to the account of the time, "all to be plainly seen without the aid of optic glasses." This wonder was the work of a poor artist who had hit upon this plan to make a living. His little exhibition was soon outdone by Hoversick, the watchmaker. For one shilling this last-named genius would show visitors the half of a common cherry stone, from which he would take a quadrille table, twelve chairs with aquilella backs, a looking-glass neatly framed, two dozen plates, six saucers, twelve spoons, a dozen knives and forks, two salt cups, and a lady and gentleman whom he seated at the table. This same Hoversick also made an ivory camel that could be passed through the eye of a common needle; six pairs of steel scissors that could all be hidden under the wing of a common house fly, and a gold chain of two hundred links, to which a miniature padlock and key were attached, all of which were of such minute dimensions as to be easily pulled across a pane of glass by a flea. Later on, he produced a small ivory coach to which he harnessed a flea, coach and steed weighing exactly as much as a barley grain; and a crane-necked carriage, with wheels turning properly on their axles, carrying four passengers, two footmen, a coachman sitting on the box, a dog between his legs, driving six ivory horses, one of the leaders bearing a position, the whole affair so light that this same pet flea could set it in motion, but was not equal to the task of dragging it across the showcase.

AN OLD MAID'S CENTENNIAL.

In All Her Long Life She Had but One Suitor.

She is one hundred years old, has never been married, and probably never will be. These facts, says the Boston Globe, combine to make Miss Permelia Wright famous. She lives at Benton Harbor, Mich., and upon any bright day may be seen walking the streets, leaning on a big cane. She has retained her faculties, and remembers many things that happened when the century was just beginning. She was born at Fairfax Court-House, Va., April 2, 1791. She says she never married because she could not bear the men. She remembers being courted eighty years ago, but by a bungling suitor, and since then she has not talked with a man except upon matters of business. She has considerable property and manages it herself. Her mind is sound, she reads without glasses, has a remarkably good appetite, regulates her sleeping and working hours by sunset and sunrise, and is remarkably regular in everything she does. She had her picture taken upon her one hundredth birthday, and laughingly attributed her long life to the fact that she had never been fatally sick.

Analogous.

The Boston Transcript reports a conversation between a little girl and her uncle, who is evidently addicted to quizzing: "Uncle George," said Mattie, "papa says you were a private in the army. Is that something very grand?" "No, Mattie, not exactly grand," answered Uncle George, with beaming modesty; "not grand, but a post of great responsibility. Mr. Halford is private secretary to President Harrison, and you know that is a position of distinction. Well, I was a private in the army. Do you see, my dear?"

Impurity of Melted Snow.

Writers in English papers have been again pointing out the fallacy of the very common idea that melted snow is an ideally pure water. The reverse of this is true. So far from being pure, snow is practically a great purifier of the atmosphere from floating particles and noxious gases. These the flakes of snow imprison or absorb as they fall, and as a matter of course, when the snow melts it is loaded with this rubbish.

HOW SOME MEN PROPOSE.

Many Different Ways, but No One Ever Drops on His Knees.

"I am a crank," said the club man to a New York Tribune reporter, "on the subject of proposals. I would rather hear a story of how a man asked the woman he loved to marry him than take a trip to Europe. I don't know why I take so strong an interest in this, unless it is that I had such a hard time to get my wife to accept me. I had been in love with her for years. I had proposed to her seven times and she refused me every time. Finally I went to her in despair and said: 'Well, Mollie, I've asked you to marry me seven times, and you have declined my name. I'm going to ask you once more, and if you don't marry me I shall go out west and stay there.'"

"Well, Jack," she said, "if you feel that way about it I'll marry you. To this day she cannot tell me why she refused so often, to marry me after all."

"There's my friend, Congressman X—," He was a poor young man, and one day he went to a young woman whom he had known for a long time.

"Well," he said, "I have been waiting till I had enough money to get married. My salary was raised yesterday. Will you marry me next week?"

"Wait until next month," she said. "No, next week," and they were married next week.

"Brown," the lawyer, was a careless young fellow. The woman whom he loved would not marry him.

"You are the most reckless man in the world," she said, "about money affairs. When you get five thousand dollars in the bank I may marry you, if you still want me."

"He went away and saved five thousand dollars. She married him and to-day he's a rich man. He learned economy while winning his wife."

"My friend Col. H— enlisted at the outbreak of the war."

"Joe," he said to the girl he wanted to marry, "I am going down south to fight. Will you marry me now or wait till I come back?"

"Right now, Sam," she said, and that afternoon he marched away.

"My brother proposed in a cool way. He hadn't been able to make up his mind what he was going to do in life, and one day the woman who is his wife now said:

"Charley (they were second cousins), what in the world are you going to make out of yourself?"

"Just whatever you make out of me," he said; "you've got lots more sense than I have, Mame."

"Has anyone here any stories to tell about proposals?" continued the storyteller. "I don't know of a single one where a man went down on his knees. I would like to hear of one. No one will tell one, eh? Well, I'm sorry. I like to hear about proposals."

HE CAME HIGH.

A Physician Who Placed a Large Estimate on His Services.

A certain physician in a large New England town had acquired an unenviable reputation for making his bills as large as possible without much regard to the state of his patients' purses, says the Youth's Companion. There are people who furthermore said that it really seemed as if there were "visits" on his bills which had never had existence anywhere else.

But he was a skillful physician, and his tendency to overrate his services only served to amuse some of his patients who had plenty of money and were not especially sharp in looking after it.

"Why," said one man to another, speaking of the doctor, "he brought my daughter Jennie up from her attack of pneumonia when two other physicians had said there was no hope for her; but when she was quite well again he charged me for three calls he made to 'inquire in a friendly way how she was getting on.'"

"That seems a little forced," admitted the other man, "but it's nothing compared to an experience I had with him at the seashore a year ago."

"We happened to be bathing at the same time one day, and I swam up to him and inquired for his wife."

"She's very well," said the doctor. "And your daughters?" I asked.

"They're perfectly well; both of them," replied he, rather shortly, I thought. So I said: "I'm delighted to hear it; remember me to them," and I swam away.

"And what do you think I received from him a week or two later? An itemized bill—one item:

"To consultation at sea, five dollars."

Although no one has ever seen that bill, the story clings to the doctor's name to this day, after a lapse of many years.

The Capitol Dome, Washington.

The capitol dome at Washington is the only considerable dome of iron in the world, says the St. Louis Republic. It is a vast hollow sphere weighing 8,000,000 pounds. How much is that? More than 4,000 tons, or almost the weight of 70,000 full grown persons, or about equal to 1,000 laden coal cars of four tons each, which, if strung out one behind the other, would occupy a mile and a half of track. On the very top of the dome the allegorical figure "America," weighing 13,985 pounds, lifts its proud head high in air. The pressure of this dome and figure upon the piers and pillars is 14,477 pounds to the square foot. It would, however, require a pressure of 753,286 pounds to the square foot to crush the supports of the dome. The cost of this immense dome was little short of $1,000,000.

The Druggists

In Lowell, Mass., agree in saying that they sell more of Hood's Sarsaparilla than of all other blood purifiers. For instance: F. C. GOODALE: I sell more of Hood's Sarsaparilla than all other blood purifiers.

A. W. DOWS & CO.: Hood's Sarsaparilla is one of the best medicines.

C. F. BLANCHARD: We sell more of Hood's Sarsaparilla than of any similar.

MARSTON & SHAW: With us the sale of Hood's is 2 to 1 of any other kind.

F. & E. BAILEY & CO.: Hood's Sarsaparilla is one of the best medicines.

CARLTON & HOVY: Hood's Sarsaparilla is one of the best medicines we have. Its sale increases every year.

F. P. MOODY: We sell twice as much of Hood's Sarsaparilla as of anything similar.

C. A. SWAN: Hood's is the most popular Sarsaparilla of the day.

THIRTY OTHER druggists speak similarly. This popularity at home, where Hood's Sarsaparilla and its proprietors have been known for many years, could not continue if the medicine did not possess merit. And these facts should certainly convince people in other sections of the country that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a good, reliable medicine.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Sold by druggists, $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

Bad Blood.

Impure or vitiated blood is nine times out of ten caused by some form of constipation or indigestion that clogs up the system, when the blood naturally becomes impregnated with the effete matter. The old Sarsaparilla attempts to reach this condition by attacking the blood with the drastic mineral "potash." Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla is modern. It goes to the seat of the trouble. It arouses the liver, kidneys and bowels and invigorates the circulation, and the impurities are quickly carried off through the natural channels.

Charles Lee, at Beamish's Third and Market Sts., S. F., writes: "Look for vitiated blood and while on the first bottle became convinced of its merits, for I could feel it was working a change. It cleansed, purified and braced me up generally, and everything is now working full and regular."

RACE HORSES AT HOME.

Good Looking Youngsters at Winters' Rancho Del Rio.

The San Francisco Examiner contains the following article about a Nevada man's horses:

Every man in this broad country that loves a thoroughbred knows Theo. Winters. He is probably the oldest of all the breeders that have made California and Nevada horses famous. He was running Indian pony races years ago before half the men now on the turf were born. He has owned some great horses, and he has, at times, been more prominent as a racing man than any other breeder in the country. He paid $15,000 for Norfolk when prices were not what they are now, and he won the horse out before he left the east with him. Mollie McCarty was his, and he was game enough to take her 3,000 miles to meet Ten Broeck, the best horse of his day, rather than have it said that he was afraid to meet the top of the country.

The Rancho Del Rio, five miles out of Sacramento, is the abiding place of the best of Winters' stock. It was there that Norfolk had his home, and a white board sticking out of the ground marks the place where the old hero sleeps beneath the shade of a spreading oak tree. Old Marion is there now. Twenty years have passed over her matronly head, but she is still a handsome mare, showing the cost of the trim set of her limbs and the exquisite shape of her queenly head.

By her side in the paddock a bay colt romps through the sunny days. He is a big fellow, short-backed, up-standing, quartered like a draft horse, muscled like a race horse, looking a prince all over, from the tip of his delicate nostrils down to his frisky heels.

NEVER A BETTER.

Old Marion never had a better-looking colt, though she has given birth to the Emperor of Norfolk and to El Rio Rey. Yo el Rey—"I, the King"—this one is called, and he promises more than any of the others.

In the same paddock with Marion and her foal is Countess Zeika, the daughter of Norfolk and Ballerina. By her side is a bay filly with the white face of the Hookers; a good-looking filly, taking after her mother in everything except the markings. Next to Yo el Rey, this filly is fancied more than any other of the year. Countess Zeika has already established herself as a mother of race horses. Ed Corrigan and Don Jose have come from her mating.

Ballerina, the dam of Alta, has by her side a chestnut colt two weeks old by the Prince of Norfolk, a colt that will race with half a chance, built as he is upon strong and pronounced lines, with that heavy quivering which seems to characterize all the Norfolk-McMarion family, of which the Prince is a good representative. Lou Spencer, the dam of Dolly McCone, has a full brother to Dolly, a chestnut colt with white splatters all over him like a pinto. He is well shaped, but that white makes him look like a range colt and will detract from his value in the sale ring. Whether it will stop him in the races is another question.

Still another foal, and one that the owner thinks much of is a brown colt by Atilla out of Polly Vic by Fiddlesticks. The mare was purchased in the East last season. Her first foal looks well enough to warrant the belief that she will make a valuable addition to the brood-mare band. The other well-bred foals that have thus far arrived are a chestnut filly out of Mattie Glenn and a brown filly out of Bonita, both by Joe Hooker. They are a fine-looking lot of youngsters, and some great racehorses will come from the lot that are now learning their first gallops.

NEARLY ALL EAST.

Almost everything on the ranch that was ready to race was taken East a month ago, but there are two or three at the place that will do some running on the home tracks this season. Among them is the four-year-old colt Chan Haskell, by Norfolk out of Addie O'Neill, a typical Norfolk, with a head exactly like that of the old horse. He has been taken up and will be put into training shortly. Along with him will be a two-year-old sister to Don Jose, a speedy filly. She cut a pastern on a barbed-wire fence and was left at home for that reason. The cut has healed and she is in condition to take work, and will be put in training in a short time.

The crop of yearlings left on the ranch is very small. There is a sister of Don Jose, a chestnut colt out of Mattie Glenn, a chestnut colt out of Addie O'Neill, and another out of Avall in the lot, all by Joe Hooker. There are now but sixteen mares at the Rancho Del Rio, but there is another band of them over the mountains in Nevada, where El Rio Rey is standing.

As he was retired late last season, the first of his foals will arrive next spring. He has had a number of high-class mares sent over to him. Joe Hooker is at the Rancho Del Rio. He still has the fire in his movements which so stamped him during his career on the turf. His age has begun to show on him slightly, but he is still a vigorous horse and still the pet of his owner.

Court in Winnemucca.

Judge A. E. Cheney is holding court in Winnemucca this week. The Indians arrested for killing a squaw at Lovelock are on trial. The Judge has the case of a diabolical crime to try this term. It is that of a Chinaman indicted for an attempt to rape a young lady at Golconda a few weeks ago. The dastardly villain put Spanish fly in the girl's coffee. Hanging would be too good for the scoundrel, but a few years in the State prison may do him good.

A Minkin Horse.

A black Shetland pony of most diminutive size, driven in a miniature road cart in which were a lady and child, was the subject of much attention on the streets this morning. It is probably the smallest horse on the continent and its size is best described in the language of a Hibernian who said he once saw a little horse in a circus, but this was as little as two of him.

THE LOCAL SCORCHED.

A Victim of His Reminiscences Denies the Allegations and Scores the Allegator.

A few weeks ago the GAZETTE local while in a reminiscent mood related an anecdote entitled the "Dignity of Labor," in which three old White Pines, viz: Mose Lyons, Charlie Kimball and Charlie Perley, were the victims of life illustrated in the sage brush. The last named now lives where the hot monsoons sweep over the valley of the San Joaquin and instead of making the local a bankrupt with a libel suit, he scorches him in a letter. The following extracts convey his present opinion of the dignity of labor, with the admission that he was once addicted to swearing, and ends his tirade by twitting the local on the color of his hair. Charlie's letter is too rich to "bury in the waters of oblivion" and the GAZETTE runs it in partial repatriation for having used his name in vain. He says:

His view of the dignity of labor is unchanged and it is his deliberate opinion that all the fine things that have been written about it in essays and spoken about it from the lecture platform to audiences of working people, have been written and spoken by men who never did a day's work in their lives.

He also finds an exception to the wholesale charges of irritability and blind devotion to the goddess of chance, although it is possible that the air in his vicinity was occasionally lurid with the energetic ejaculations peculiar to the Pognip. In that respect he resembles Billy Wilson, the famous Colonel of a somewhat noted regiment at the beginning of the war, who had his soldiers drawn up on parade to answer to the charge of having stolen the chaplain's watch and spectacles. "Deliver up the old s— of b—s' plunder," thundered Billy. It was promptly laid upon the drum head. "Bless the lamb," said the weeping William, "they'll steal, but they won't lie."

But times change and men change with them. His seat near the case-keeper is vacant and the nightly meetings of the stove herders and three-time losers are things of the past. Engaged in peaceful pursuits in the total county of California, he laid the flattering unction to his soul, that his early escapades in the land of the sage brush and Princess Sarah Winemucca were buried in the waters of oblivion, when to his wonder and dismay, they are dragged from the depths, resuscitated and exaggerated by a red-headed reporter of the GAZETTE.

RUNAWAY AT GOLD HILL.

Two Ladies Thrown out of a Buggy One Sustained a Broken Arm. Last Sunday a runaway accident occurred in Gold Hill, whereby Mrs. Fink had an arm broken. The injured lady and her daughter, Mrs. Crow, were driving a one horse rig through Gold Hill when a man emerged from a byway with a wheelbarrow of rubbish, at which the horse took fright and ran away. Both ladies were thrown out, and Mrs. Fink received a broken arm and was otherwise injured. Mrs. Crow escaped with slight injuries. The buggy was badly shattered, the shafts being broken off near the axle and the off fore wheel smashed.

Marble Found in Pine Nut.

A TEARFUL REQUEST.

The Touching Scene Enacted Between Bessie and Friends.

I have a friend who is one of the most talented young men in the west, says a writer in the Chicago Post. The other day he came into my office and made a cold-blooded bluff before my astonished eyes. I took him up, right then and there, of course. We went to the Richeieu and ordered in the neighborhood of sixteen dollars' worth of food and drink, and pitched into it as if we hadn't had anything before for twenty years. It was a safe bet that this remarkable exhibition of generosity meant that I was to be called upon to give up something, and, sure enough, I was.

"By the way," he remarked, as he was lighting his cigar, "by the way, old man, I want you to do something for me."

"All right," I replied promptly. A friend who blows you off to a sixteen dollar dinner is entitled to a soft answer. "What is it?"

"I hate to ask you," he went on, puffing slowly at the cigar. "I'm devilish diffident about asking favors of my friends, but you can do this, and I don't think that it will give you very much trouble. You know I have never struck you for any kindnesses, long as we have known each other."

"That's so," I answered. "Go ahead, I'll do anything I can for you."

"Well, you see," he went on, "it's like this. I am—no," he broke off suddenly. "I can't bear to ask it of you."

"There were real tears in his eyes. 'Don't let yourself be disturbed, old fellow,' I cried, very much affected. 'Remember I'm your friend.'"

"No, I can't do it," he said, when he had recovered his composure. "I can't bring myself to ask you right to your face."

By this time I was very curious to know what the trouble was, and so I proved a soft mark. He counted on my face. "Perhaps I might be able to write it down and go out of the room while you read it. Will you promise not to look at it until I have got clear outside?"

Of course I promised. What else could I do? So he wrote down four or five words on the back of a wine card, folded it up and handed it to me. Then he shook my hand effusively, said I would never know how grateful he was to me for my kindness, and went out dissolved in tears. When he had shut the door behind him, and then until shut, I unfolded the card. And this is what he had written:

"Please pay for the lunch."

DOGS DETERIORATING.
Voluptuous Ease is Spoiling the Canine Race.

While the grander sort of dog has been morally degraded by being turned into a hapless lackey the breeds that have happened to suit the capricious and errant fancies of animal peters have undergone still deeper deterioration, says the Cornhill Magazine.

The sleek pug, for instance, on whom is often lavished such a wealth of feminine fondness, has long since become perfectly aware of his new function in the house. He knows he is the first pet and he is perfectly happy in the fact. His mind seems untroubled by any recollection of a higher estate. He has lost the ancient desire of the species to be man's loyal servant. He may, perhaps, if you happen to call at the house and find him in exclusive possession of the drawing-room, make a pretense of resisting your intrusion. But his Sybaritic habits are too much for him and presently he sinks in voluptuous slumbers on the softest of sofa-cushions. These spoiled creatures learn to take the fondlings bestowed upon them as a matter of course. They are wholly un-demonstrative, and perhaps the most flattering thing that can be said of them is that, unlike their rival, the cat, they do not simulate a tenderness of which their heart is wholly destitute.

Her Deposit was Accepted.

A few weeks ago, says the Chicago Mail, a middle-aged woman carrying a small satchel entered a downtown bank and said to a teller that she would like to make a deposit. "We can't open an account with you," said the young man behind the window, "unless you make some arrangement with the cashier personally. I can give you a certificate of deposit however."

"Very well," quietly remarked the visitor, "I don't want to be bothered to carry this about town and the certificate will do very well until I can find some institution that will open an account with me." The expectant young man opened his certificate blank book and dipped his pen in the ink well before him. The satchel was opened, and from it came—not a blank purse, or a few dollars tied into a knot in a handkerchief corner—but United States bonds the face value of which aggregated more than $348,000. The certificate was not filled out. An account was opened.

A SCHOOLHOUSE in which Susan B. Anthony taught for three years, up in Canajoharie, in central New York, has been advertised for sale at auction. It was built in 1849.

A CHATTANOOGA dentist lost a valuable diamond ring the other day in a curious manner. He was examining the back teeth of a patient, when the ring slipped down the latter's throat. The ring has not yet been recovered.

BRIEN doctors have come to an understanding that hereafter their coachmen shall wear white hats, so that a doctor's carriage may be always immediately distinguished from the public enabled to summon medical aid on the streets in urgent cases.

A CRAZY spectator in court at Woonsocket, R. I., a few days ago seized some copies of the general statistics and smashed glass panels in Judge Ballou's bookcase and window lights to the extent of thirty-five dollars before he could be seized and locked up.

SHERIFF HAYNES, of Dearborn county, Ind., was awakened by a pull on the doorbell of the jail at Lawrenceburg the other morning, and upon responding to the summons found one of the prisoners on the outside who had voluntarily returned. Investigation showed that all the prisoners had escaped during the night.

PROFITABLE PROFESSIONS.

Here Are Two That Pay Better Than Law or Medicine.

In discussions and articles on "The Choice of a Profession" two of the most lucrative professions of all have generally been forgotten. These are the professions of a jockey and "strong man."

At a festive meeting, viz., the annual dinner of the Jockey club, a former steward of the Jockey club said: "Cases now exist where a jockey receives a salary equal to that of a secretary of state, and jockeys even of the second rank receive, I think, payments which place them in a position, from a financial point of view, considerably ahead. I may say, of the bulk of their employers."

Besides these salaries (or retainers, as they are called) the jockeys receive the authorized and regular riding fees, and it is no exaggeration to affirm the Pall Mall Gazette to say that at the present moment at least half a dozen of them are earning, in connection with their riding, in the shape of retainers, riding fees and presents, $5,000 a year apiece, and in one or two cases even more.

With reference to the earnings of "strong men," Sandow is reported to have said, in connection with the contest in which he took part recently, that by his defeat he lost more than $4,000, the savings of only two years. If these statements are facts, and there is no reason to doubt that they are, we need not wonder at the large number of would-be "strong men" and jockeys.

Gum arabic, which was once universally used, has become very scarce and dear, and a substitute for it is being made from starch, which is subjected under pressure and at a high temperature to the action of sulphurous acid. The product, after neutralization, is soluble and extremely adhesive.

A new kind of metal is reported from Birmingham, Eng., which is said to be non-corrosive and will adhere to other metals of all kinds when properly applied. Its greatest use will probably be found in the marine engineering, for coating the steel for propellers to prevent their pitting.

A GUN to fire under water has been invented and one for the United States Army Destroyer is in course of construction at Bethlehem, Pa. This experimental gun is to be thirty-five feet long, and will throw a projectile twenty-five feet in length, containing four hundred pounds of nitroglycerine, one thousand feet through the water.

"German Syrup"

Here is something from Mr. Frank A. Hale, proprietor of the Dr. Witt House, Lewiston, and the Tontine Hotel, Brunswick, Me. Hotel men meet the world as it comes and goes, and are not slow in sizing people and things up for what they are worth. He says that he has lost a father and several brothers and sisters from Pulmonary Consumption, and is himself frequently troubled with colds, and he

Hereditary often coughs enough to make him sick at Consumption his stomach. Whenever he has taken a cold of this kind he uses Boschee's German Syrup, and it cures him every time. Here is a man who knows the full danger of lung troubles, and would therefore be most particular as to the medicine he used. What is his opinion? Listen! "I use nothing but Boschee's German Syrup, and have advised, I presume, more than a hundred different persons to take it. They agree with me that it is the best cough syrup in the market."
